Building a famous box of candy

How each one of these sweets won the right to its place in The Sampler

If you were to have in front of you at this moment the ten most famous Whitman packages and were to select from each candies to make up an assortment that would be a "sampler" of them all, you would follow exactly the method we use in making up Whitman's Sampler.

Every sweet in this unique package is a long-tested favorite from other packages of Whitman's—famous since 1842. Every sweet in the sampler has "won the votes" of the most critical purchasers of candy in America.

Everything about the sampler is unusual—the quality of the sweets, the way they were selected and the quaint box that women like so much to keep.

Stores that sell the Sampler sell the other Whitman packages, and receive them all direct from the makers.

COMING BACK

Weren't you feeling kinda groggy
When the porter gave the call,
Warmly muffled in that upper
Near old Lehigh's ivy walls?
And you thought "Vacation's over"—
And you gave a sleepy groan—
And the world seemed sorta friendless,
In that upper all alone.
You thought of all the cash you'd spent;
The car, the shows, the girls,
The debutante you'd kissed good-bye,
Her little flaxen curls.
And now—no hope till Christmas!
Ain't this a cru-ell earth?
Weren't you feeling kinda gloomy
When you woke up in that berth?

RE-EXAMS

*Were you in that happy bunch?
Were you one to suffer?
One of those who "ate" exams
For breakfast, lunch and supper?
Did you flunk in German?
Did you quake in Math?
Just describe your feelings
When Blowpipe crossed your path.
How did you fare in Chemistry?
How did you "knock" the Spanish?
Oh, hell! How very quick the thoughts
Of graduating vanish.
If father's stare is icy cold,
It surely will be thawing,
For you can tell him that you passed
Your lectures and your drawing.*

OF MARGE

There was a young girl whose shoes were so large
That the sight of them pained me—I say this of Marge;
I gave her the air after one little peek
For how could my heart ever beat at those feet.

A SATURDAY NIGHT IN OUR RESTAURANT

A student trickled into our chop-house one Saturday night and fell into a chair. A disciple of Athens handed him a bill of fare, and after looking at it for a while he said, "I'll take some nice grease spots."

After spending all Summer doing research along this line, Burro is glad to announce no acceptable "substitute" has been found for curing a cold.

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

I cheerfully recommend my old girl to any young man wanting a dating companion for this year.

She's a fairly good looker.

She's a fairly good dancer, yet will dance bad, if requested.

She's a fairly good listener, but a better talker.

She likes to travel—in a taxi.

She has red hair and temperament to match.

She likes Melachrinos but has smoked sensible cigarettes.

She's English by descent.

And Scotch by absorption.

She wears her hair bobbed and skirts knee-length.

She rolls her own.

My only reason for quitting her is because I won't be back to college this fall.

Treat her right—she likes to be treated, often.

HOMEWORK

Mother may I go out to-night.

No, my darling Sue.

Father and I go out to-night.

You bottle up the brew.

SHE CAN BE PETTED

Father—"Son, I don't want you to go around with that girl anymore. She has the reputation of being wild."

Son—"Why, she's not wild at all, I can get quite close to her."

A bird in the hand is bad table manners.

How many E's in Lehigh?

I find no ease in Lehigh.

FROSH

Leave liquor alone — it's scarce.

Go to B'Thorpe occasionally (gong sounding at nine-thirty means dinner. Stay until kicked out).

Remember that Lehigh sends more men to Bethlehem Prep. than any other college. (This will be a self-evident fact later.)

If any one asks you for a match, tell them that you have convictions against smoking and so have none handy. (Smoking may injure some people, but these convictions will wreck you.)

They built the chapel especially for you to use and not to show the family when they drop in to see how their Wonder is progressing.

Start thinking up a speech to put across to the high school gang when you get back.

Leave your lights on all night. It gives a good impression.

NUMBER ONE

Published monthly by the students of Lehigh University. Subscription two dollars and a half, or two dollars if paid before December 1st. Single copies thirty cents. Post office as second class matter.

GREETINGS, fellow scholars! Bound between this Arrow Collar celebrity and another product of the imagination you have Burro's wee bit o' welcome. He calls it his Primer Number; you may call it anything you please except rotten, for the intelligent mortal can easily glean two meanings from that word, and Burro hates unearned notoriety. Perhaps you have recognized a few of the standard nursery rhymes in spite of the fact that Burro has bobbed their hair and — well shortened or rolled 'em to make them fashionable. If your early youth was spent in catching rides on the ice-wagon these remodelled gems of prose and poetry will fail to filter, so Burro offers in his Primer a complete set of drawings designed to please the ice-wagon specie. Burro believes that the seething mob should be soothed and the angry populace tickled, so he brings the past up to date and throws it at them just for fun. To the younger element which is sojourning in our midst Burro extends a double welcome and wishes them all kinds of good luck.

ONCE upon a time a certain organism came into our midst carrying a mallet in each hand and a sledge-hammer in his mouth. As a knocker his record held good in at least seven counties; joy beat it for the service entrance when he came in the front door and the song of his hammers cast gloom so thick that some people would even study in order to rest their minds after one of his gas attacks. His chief objective was the football team. Every month when he had a good word for it he would slide into Philly on Sunday morning and whisper it behind Independence Hall, or if he wasn't so afraid some one would hear him he would sneak to the abandoned zinc mine and tell it to the bull-frogs. Every boost that the team received was a nail in our opponent's coffin and here was this insect trying to melt those nails.

Every time that this cloud made a pass a crap turned face up and his woeful woes became so strong that others with diseased vertebrae joined the anvil chorus. One bad spud spoils the whole barrel and soon the team sensed that something was rotten in that Danish municipality and as a result things did take on a dark color. Can you see now why they never keep a pile-driver in a china closet? Do your duty all ye loyal, but remember that there is a harsh law against murder.

BURRO is braying for attention. He figures that he isn't being given a fair shake. He has succeeded in getting your financial support and now he asks for your personal aid. The competition for positions on the board is under a full head of steam but so far the results have not been very inspiring, so we ask you to unlimber your pen in Burro's behalf. If only a few men are to carry him through the year you will be treated with just a few brands of humor while better men than the contributors perhaps, sit back and growl out the old-time slogan about doing better themselves. Now is the time for these pent-up Muse to bring forth their wares, remembering, that all copy must be in the present language of the realm and that bad jokes sometimes get by.

"GETTING GERTIE'S GOAT"

A light opera fantasie in one complete revolution. A one-hundred per cent. American production containing no bed-room scenes nor any reference to home-brew. Dry comedy throughout.

CAST

ASHUR, the husband Trian Getit
GERTIE, the wife Wanda Whether
THE CHORUS Subject to change

ACT I.

CURTAIN. Five P. M. Bethlehem time: Jersey commuters add one hour. ASHUR and GERTIE seated on a rail-fence. GERTIE with back to ASHUR is registering hate. On said back is a painted butter-fly at which ASHUR makes a pass just as curtain reaches its zenith. CHORUS is draped in background pretending that they just happened to be there and weren't getting a salary for it.

GERTIE: Now you brute you strike at me. Instead of adding insult to injury you add injury to insult. Why did I ever marry a traveling-man when I could have taken a perfectly good plumber. He would have been home after something he had forgotten and could not have insulted me at the dance.

CHORUS: A plumber, a plumber,
The lady desires.
A plumber, a plumber,
Our Gertie requires. (cheers)

ASHUR: Tell Ashur what he has done to his precious little running-mate. Those glistening tears like tecla pearls are breaking Ashur's heart-strings and washing the powder from Gert's beak. Tell me what is the cause of your present bereavement and I will appease your anger.

CHORUS: Them tears, them tears,
Like pearls they art;
Them tears, them tears,
Crack Ashur's heart.
(fireworks)

GERTIE: Don't try to kiss me now after striking me as you did. Go home and shave, you big bully.

ASHUR: Why, Gertie dear, how could you make such a cutting remark to me, your lawfully wedded husband.

CHORUS: A cutting remark,
It sounded sharp;
His beard and face
Must come apart.
(guttural sounds)

GERTIE: You said something during our last dance that I'll never forgive you for. I'm going back to the cigar factory and let you earn your own living.

CHORUS: The air, the air,
This bird must take;
Cigars, cigars,
Our Gert will make.
(Sings any two additional verses from the Congressional Record.)

ASHUR: I'm a good husband, Gertie, only you haven't lived with men long enough to appreciate me. I only told you that you danced like a Zephyr.

GERTIE: Ashur, my love, how can you forgive me. I thought that you said Heifer.

CHORUS: Heifer not Zephyr,
She thought he said;
But Zephyr not Heifer
It was instead.
(Four chautauqua salutes)

THE TWO-BIT KING

BEFORE AND AFTER

*There was a pretty Freshman,
Brutus was his name,
The contest waged to pledge him
Was anything but tame.*

*He was the perfect specimen,
The boys he did enhance,
But once they put the button on
He didn't have a chance.*

*Oh, once that little button
Was glued to his lapel,
Everything he did was wrong,
And all Brutus caught was—(well, he didn't have a chance).*

SO WE'VE NOTICED OURSELVES

Isn't it funny that out of twenty-five men that grab the front-row seats at the Grand, twenty-four are disappointed; and the other is a cripple or is blind and goes down for the music?

THERE MUST BE OTHERS

She—"No, Herb, not yet."

Herb—"But you promised me you would when I got my Dip."

She—"Was it you that I promised?"

ONE EVERY SIX MINUTES

She—"The Newlyweds have a little Ford."

He—"What, so soon?"

If at first you don't succeed, get a divorce and try again.

OUR HOROSCOPE FOR OCTOBER

Were you born in October? Persons born in this month can catch contagious diseases. They should keep full of home-brew and garlic and guard against walking too close to the ground. Women born in this month will not be seen in dark places nor heard when not talking. Persons born under this sign have birthdays once a year until they are twenty-three then their memory fails.

Marriage: The men should marry the women, one at a time or as soon as they can get enough divorce papers signed up to insure future happiness. Always obtain the woman's name in full and not when full. The women born in this month should make sure that their intended is at least out on bail and that his freedom will last over the first rent day.

Fame and Fortune: It will be unfortunate for any person born in October to be caught trying to pass flannel money as it is readily detected by its color. Persons obtaining fame and fortune will be famous, and those obtaining fortune and fame will be fortunate.

REMEMBRANCE

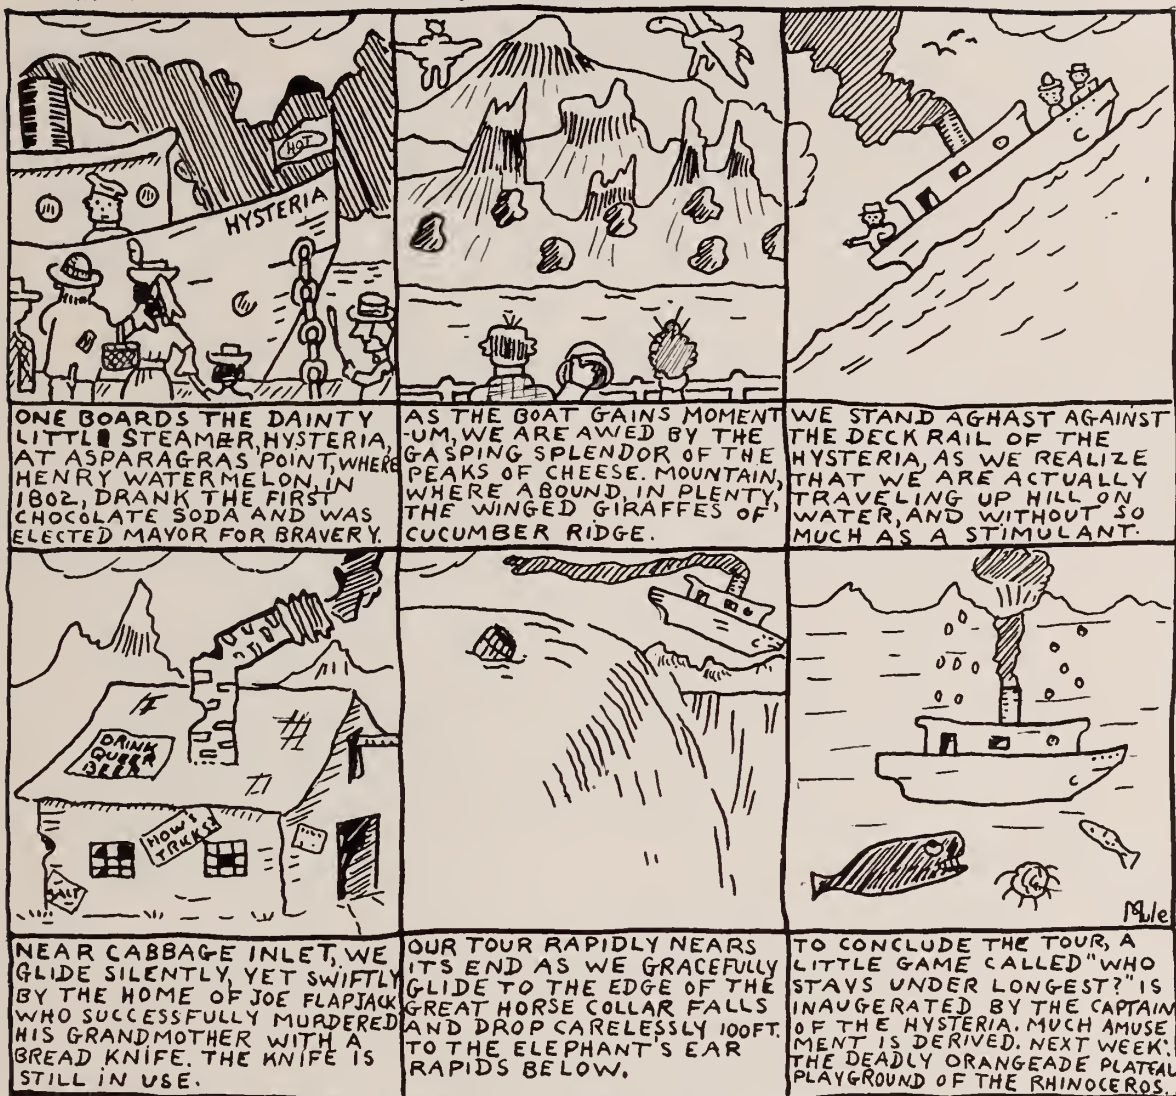

(With apologies to Byron)

'Tis done! I felt it in my bean;
No more for me the sperm-oil gleam;
I flunked that re without a doubt,
Instead of being in—I'm out.
Gaby, Pepper, Peg, adieu:
Would I could add remembrance too.

WALKIN' ON THE GREEN

O, Freshy dear, and did you hear the news
that's goin' round?

The Freshmen are by rule forbid to walk on grassy ground.

No more short cuts by day we'll take,

On grass we can't be seen,

For they're razing all the Freshmen if they walk up on the green.

(Music sent on request.)

SHADES OF NIGHT?

'24—"Gotta get a new room."

'25—"What's the matter?"

'24—"Can't sleep with the shades up every night."

'25—"Why don't you pull them down?"

'24—"Can't—they're not my shades."

AND THEN SHE BLUSHED

*On B-thorpe Campus two fair damsels strolled;
In mien rather elegant and bold.*

*An unknown object tripped one of the pair,
She fell—flaunting pink things to the air.*

She slipped and fell—

She did it well,

She did.

Up went her smock,

Exposed her sock

An' more, that it had hid.

How fussed I were!

COULD IT BE MODESTY?

She—"Let's not go past those horrid boys standing on the corner."

She 2—"What's the matter, don't you have silk ones on?"

RUSHING AS IT SHOULD BE

I.—The week before the opening of college at least two brothers residing in "The City" should visit the following: the Follies, the Plaza, the Century Grove, the Little Club, and the Pre Cat.
One should have a date with a "red head". The material gathered in such practical research will be most valuable as an addition to the conversation of the rushing period.

II.—Always juggle the six-course meals so that Freshmen will not only suspect but almost believe that this is regular chow.

III.—Brothers will be subjected to the usual fine for not signing up at the "store" for the cigar
the innocent boy really thought he was expected to accept.

IV.—When displaying plans for the new house, care must be exercised to cover with the thumb the date 1913 in the corner.

V.—On the house bulletin-board should be posted a price-list, including initiation fee, board per week, etc.

VI.—Many Freshmen may be influenced by presenting them with regulation Frosh caps, ties, socks and matches upon their arrival.

VII.—Topics for conversation during meals should include—the drop in the price of matches, manufacture of gin synthetically, new faculty members, the condition this country would be in to-day if the Mayflower had foundered in mid-
Atlantic, and the last issue of Vanity Fair.

TO THE EDITOR

*I love to read de Maupassant,
Or tales by Elinor Glyn,
And in my songs I love to chant
The praise of women and gin.
But nowadays, alas—there be
Reformers everywhere,
And seldom in the BURR I see
The joke I wanted there.*

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Articles most of us forgot to bring back with us and which we really won't need till the second term:—

Combination to the Bank of England.

Plate from which Mealy "pass-out" checks are printed.

The Pope's triple crown.

Autograph of Clemenceau written upside-down and good at any pawnbroker's for $700.43.

A gold after-dinner spoon, for which the domestics at Buckingham Palace have been hunting high and low.

A typewriter with Czecho-Slovak type.

The latest electric hair-curler.

THESE WEEK-ENDS

She—"Oh, Jack, you're so tender to-night."

'25—"I ought to be, I've been in hot water with the Sophs all week at school."

LITTLE WILLIE IN TWO PARTS

Little Willie had a thirst for gore,
Nailed the baby to the floor;
Mother said, in accents quaint,
"Willie, dear, don't mar the paint."

Little Willie found some dynamite,
Didn't understand it quite;
Curiosity never pays —————
It rained Willie seven days.

MODERN TAXIDERMY

She (after ordering the whole menu) —
"What does your father do?"

He—"The same thing I'm doing now."

She—"No, I mean, what's his business?"

He—"He stuffs birds."

THE FABLE OF THE BIRD WHO THOUGHT COLLEGE RAN ON A PREP. SCHOOL BASIS

(Apologies to Gawwge Ade)

This is the Fable of the Freshman who thought Old Sol bobbed up and down on His Chest. He didn't hail from Yipp's Crossing like the Flat Tire in "Sink or Swim" did. He came from that Locus where CO gas goes its country Brother 2% higher. In other words, the Pater obliterated the 220-yard Run for Him by nesting where the Brill Speedster met Him at the doorstep in the Matin.

But needless to say, He was never there to welcome it. His Preliminaries were spent in a Shrine where National Holidays jostled Elbows with Eachother during the Week, and the hardest Labor on the Roster checked in every Nite, in the shape of Chaucer.

Study Books merely served to keep the Table from jumping up in Hours of Ecstasy. His Weakly Allowance came as regularly as a Tailor Bill.

The Time came when He galloped madly to the Platform and embraced a Piece of Paper which told Him that He was the Finished Article, as far as the Prelims were concerned; or, in the Words of the Immortal Pete Swick, He was the Cat's Eyebrow in the Semi-Finals.

He spent the Summer engrossed in the Catalogues of Hopefulness; the Nites He whiled away in a Merry Knight Polecat Rock Crusher of delicate Duck Egg Blue, with the Searchlight of his Life by His Side. He told Her just where Colleges went Wrong, and Her Eyes, like two big tin Dippers, made clear to Him that She was a Good Listener. Who wouldn't bend Her Auditory Nerve toward the Heir of the Muttonhead Sheekels?

The rapid Decay of Fruit in the Faraway Fields indicated that the Clothing Adds would soon take on a Heavier Aspect, or to be Frank with Eachother, Summer was on the Wane.

The Time came when the tear-stained Face-Cloth took on a dewy Aspect, as the Tin Plate Local wheezed out of the station with our Hero draped about its After Deck under a Pale Green Sky.

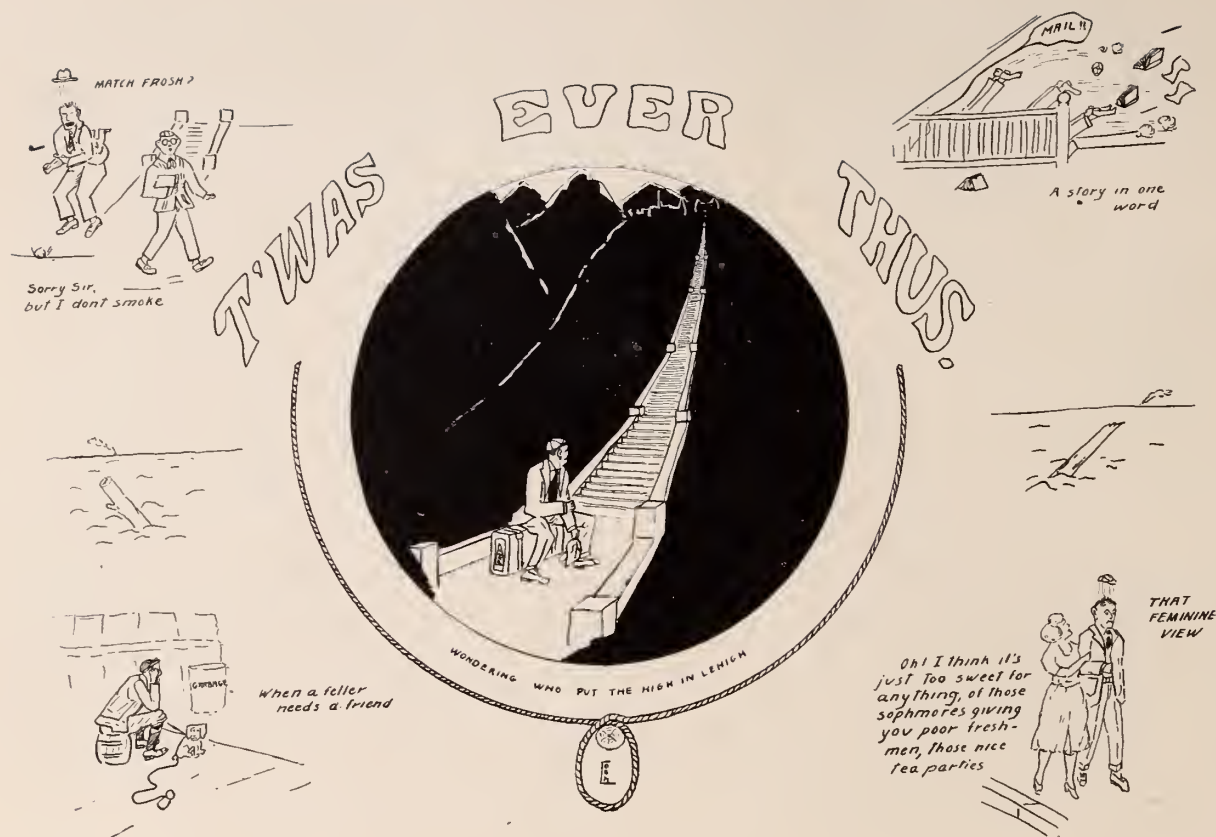

To avoid what We know must pass, let US assume that the Pink-Cheeked Youth has gotten settled in some Fashion.

Things are not what they were in the Semi-Finals. He was Everything in the Land of the Roasting Ear. His Stentorian Vox brought the highest Town Politician to His Beck and Call. Here, there seemed a Click who were showing Him another Side of the Universe. Nothing was his Own, not even His Time. A Rude Click, who termed Themselves Sophs, were smearing His Dreamy Past with the Grease Paint of Humiliation, and leaving His Future a Galley Slave Existence. He no longer heard the sweet cry, "Archibald", but in its place, "Freshman", and He bemoaned the Fact that his Credentials ever allowed Him to enter The Halls of Misery.

MORAL: The Peacock's a vain bird, but it takes the Stork to Deliver the Goods.

AMONG WE SCHOLARS

Prof.—“What does the word assess mean?”

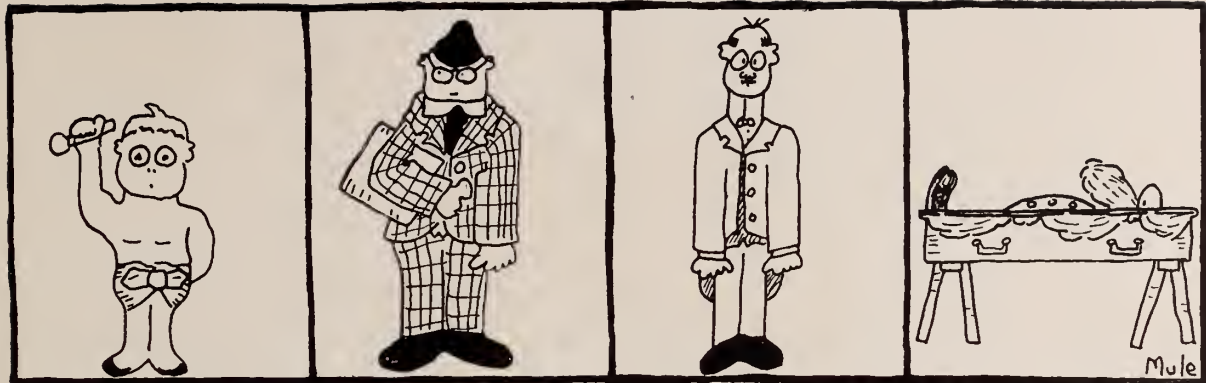

Stude—“Why, er — assess is a lady donkey.”

HOW ABOUT THE HORSE

The porcupine may have his quills,
The elephant his trunk,
But when it comes to common sense
My money's on the skunk.

Sometimes even an Indian guide can't follow
the straight and narrow path.

THE AZELL GROUP

Dear Editor,

I am a little girl eighteen years old. My sweetie calls on me three times a week but never takes me out. What shall I do?

Gwendolyn.

Give him the air Gwen; he believes in free love.

ODE TO A GRAVEL WALK

*Little bit of gravel
Sticks into her shoe;
Little foot is lifted
Bringing into view,
Little rows of laces
Quite a length of hose—
We must stop a minute
To view this pretty pose.*

RUMOR

Rumor has it that the engineering courses at Lehigh are to be extended to five years. To a lot of us this doesn't mean a thing—we've been here five years now. But we do wonder if that means that we get out in seven years.

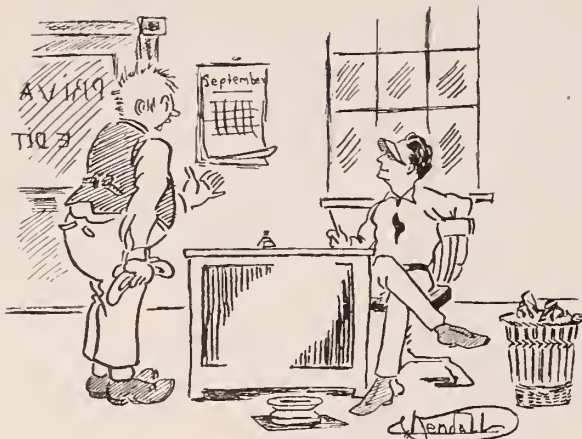

A WRIGLEY ROMANCE

The corner to which they had retired was a popular one. She was tired of dancing and longed to be salved or speaking in the vernacular she wished to be petted. His corns hurt. Perhaps it was Fate that caused a gentle zephyr to waft a strand of her hair across the sensitive tip of his nose, but, scientifically speaking, this was caused by the instability of the vortex sheet. However, she always sat on the windward side of all her victims so that the coal tar products could get in their deadly work. He snoze; she rejoiced as he encircled the stylish circumference of her waist in his strong embrace, for she realized that his romantic blood was above par.

They had just settled down to thermal equilibrium when —— "Peggy O'Veil". Through sheer force of habit his corns hurt. She plucked a blond hair from his frock and looked soulfully into his eyes with a dreamy gaze that seemed to say, "I know you have something you want to tell me." Being a man that understood eyes he came through: "Say, willya putcher chewin gum back inyer paint box?"

Note—It's alright to bang your hair, girls, but not your chewing gum.

If two tabbies stage a race, is the one on the inside a pole-cat?

Editor (to new collector)—“So Jackson promised to pay next January? You’re not as dumb as you look, Jackson’s a tough customer.”

Collector—“Ay tank hay mane next yanoory, annyhoe he say, ‘Bane damn cold day when you get your monay’.”

LIKE 'ELLY DID

*There once was a Freshman named Kelly,
Who doted on bread and sweet jelly;
He climbed on the shelf
To get more for himself,
But slipped and fell right on his tummy.*

BURRO pauses to inquire: In the race for a husband, how is a girl to know when she is on her last lap?

ADJECTIVELY SPEAKING OF A FROSH

Young, simple, green, dumb, ignorant, fresh, poor, unsupportable, unbearable, indecent, undeveloped, uneducated, impossible,—these are just general, add more to suit the case in hand.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

*If they’re down to the shoe tops, they’re cotton.
Six inches exposed — they’re lisle.
Twelve inches to the public, they’re silk.
If to the knee, they’re ROLLED.*

A BAD TIME TO MENTION IT

She—“Do you know I find it so much colder out here than it was back home. There I wore light garments all winter, but since moving here I have had to put on heavier clothing. I’m from Oregon, you know.”

He (with a polite show of interest)—“Is that so? I’m from Missouri.”

SO SAY WE ALL

If there is anything I like
It’s a fellow
Who is ambitious enough
To carry a few extra hours.
Thus I myself last year got through
Twenty-one hours.
Yes sir, eleven the first term
And ten the second.
I thank you.

TOWN TOPICS

Salesman to native — “What sort of a town is this?”

Native—“You can get purty good stuff fur eight dollars at the drug store.”

A FATHER'S LETTER TO HIS SON

Corn Husk Crossing,
Oct. 1921.

dere Heneery—

yur muther and i receeved yur welcume letter of Sept. 20 ninth too days ago. Yur muther is sendin you a nuther suit of heavy dooty underware, so you can send the uthur suit to the warsh now.

If you have enny old track or runnin pants left over, i wish you wood send them home, as i can ware then during the cold spell, this winter.

You are allus talkin of warein Gym's suits. i wish you wood try to get along with the one you have, as it must make it allfired mean for Gym, unless he has a lot of suits. if you take keer of those pajammas we sent you, yur muther thinks they can be worn neckst summer in plase of a Pammbeechee suit, and no one the wiser.

Don't sroke cigarets. remember joel Hawkins divin off the top of the windmill last winter. cigarets done that. Grate minds say cigarets make you see haystacks, wen theres nuthin below you but a konkrete wall.

And beware of licker. love yur enumies but dont go puttin yurarms around every thing in site. Yur muther is inclosing a pr. of suspenders with vilets worked on 'em. You can leeve yur coat off and bring about the dezired affect at barn dances, if they are still in stile in the sity. We have so r any pigs that we are keeping 7 of them in the kitchen now. the corn is at its zeeneth. Also the old apple tree by the barn blue down during the storm sunday. my roomatizum has shifted to the nether leg agin. p. S. i am glad you are taking stokiometry as you allus was a poor hand at the keeping the house warm.

There was a little girl
And she had a little curl
Right in the middle of her forehead;
And when she was good,
She was very, very good,
But when she was bad, she was co-ed.

Oi Lave Town Sunday!

THE BETTER HALF

Oscar Sory, fair and spry.
To kiss the girls, he'd always try.
Some of them cried, but more than half,
Held up their heads for more, and laughed.

OH, THAT'S DIFFERENT

Lizard—"She's developed into a terrible hop fiend."

Snake—"What!"

Lizard—"That's right, never misses a dance."

OH, ME! OH, MY!

Little girl,
Little miss,
Little lady,
Little kiss.

Big young man,
Big mistake,
Big no ask,
Big come take.

FOLLOW THE SPIRAL LINE

How about the broken stitch?
Wee small hole, man to bewitch.
Once begun,
See it run!
Oh, what fun!

Small at morning; very soon
Grows and grows, till afternoon.
We feel certain —
Danger —————
Curtain!

As the ancient philosophers said, "In speaking of the little things that count, don't forget the adding machine."

THE DESERTED CAMPUS

Old Packer peals the knell of parting day
The weary studes wind slowly home to tea.
The Bus. Ads. gaily frisk their "Colly" way
And leave the world to darkness and to —
Calculus, Strength and Metallurgy.

THAT UNNECESSARY FEELING

Being introduced to the stag who knows only one girl — the one you brought.

'T WAS EVER THUS

Once a guy whose name was Airum
Visited a Turkish harem,
And as the ladies loved to barem
You should have seen the harem scarem.

We pause and wonder whether robbing the same place twice might not be called a repeating rifle.

Dizzy—"Ever read 'Looking Backwards'?"
Height—"Yes, I do it in every quiz."

SHE MEANT WELL

"My face is my fortune, sir," she said.
The house pride gave a groan;
"You should have said, I think, instead,"
He grinned — "your chaperone!"

ZOOLOGY

If I were an elephant,
How happy I would be;
I'd put you in my little trunk,
And steal away — Oh Gee.

SAFETY FIRST

Lady—"Don't be afraid of Fido, mister, he will eat out of your hand."

Ice man—"That's just what I'm afraid of, lady."

NOTE WELL, FROSH

'23—"What is an optimist?"

'22—"A fellow who cuts a dance with a Prof's daughter and then expects to pass the course."

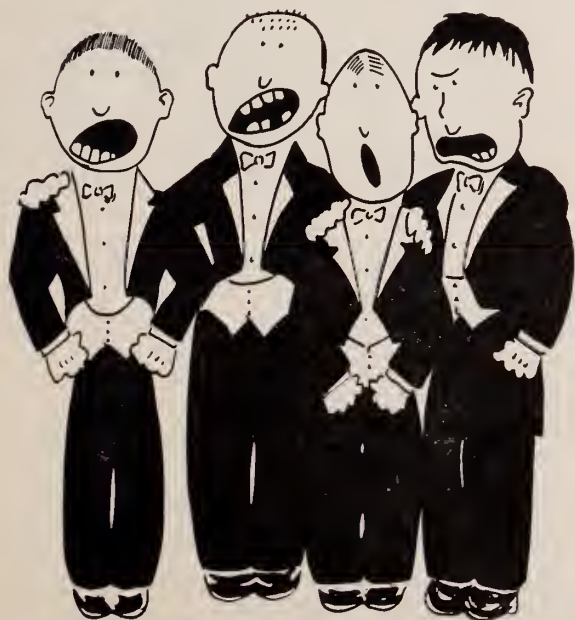

SOME DO AND SOME DON'T

She—"What do fellows talk about after the dances?"

He—"The same things you girls talk about."

She—"Oh! You horrid things!"

A Hell of a Note to End on Advice to Freshmen!

Be respectful to Upper Classmen—

Remember, Freshmen should be seen and not heard —

And, buy your clothes, hats, and haberdashery of Wallach Bros.

Our Stores are Your Stores

Thousands of young men in and out of college have made the Wallach stores what they are today.

Everything in our stores, everything about our stores, is as it is, because you college men have evinced a preference for this or that, or because you have indicated that you like certain things done thus and so.

The styles you like, the quality you like, at prices you like—thanks to our policy of taking a slender profit on a great many sales instead of a big one on a few.
